‘KENYA UNDER CANVAS’ SAFARI

~ November 24 to December 4, 2007 ~ From $2995 per person ~
Dear Fellow Columbian:

Follow in the footsteps of legendary visitors such as Karen Blixen, Ernest Hemingway and Theodore Roosevelt as professional naturalist Peter Njuguna takes you into the African bush for experiences beyond your highest expectations. Explore Samburu Reserve, home to rare wildlife species found nowhere else in Kenya. See hundreds to thousands of colorful flamingos lining the shores of Lake Nakuru in the Great Rift Valley. Experience the Maasai Mara, the 'Jewel of Africa' whose rolling hills are spotted with herds of wildebeest, zebra and impala. After sundown, return to luxurious tented camps pampered by all the modern amenities, yet still immersed in the magic of your natural surroundings. Best of all, at the end of each day you'll be in the company of fellow alumni to share your experiences and lively conversations.

An optional extension is available to explore Tsavo West and Amboseli National Parks, homes to a plethora of wildlife in the shadows of Mt. Kilimanjaro.

Sincerely,

Eric J. Furda '94TC
Vice President for Alumni Relations

YOUR ITINERARY

November 24/25
NEW YORK/LONDON/NAIROBI
Board your flight to Kenya, via London arriving the next evening in Nairobi. You will be met by your professional naturalist and escorted to your impressive accommodations, which served as a British Officers' retreat fifty years ago. NAIROBI SAFARI PARK HOTEL. (Meals Aloft)

November 26/27
SAMBURU RESERVE
Your safari, the Swahili term for journey, begins this morning as you cross the equator en route to Samburu Reserve on the arid fringes of northern Kenya, and home to the colorful Samburu people. Explore the reserve for wildlife species rarely found elsewhere in Kenya - Grevy's zebra, reticulated giraffe and Beisa oryx. Comb the harsh terrain for the graceful gerenuk, an antelope that spends its day in a bipedal stance amidst the sparse scrub. Discover a pride of lions sleeping in the bushes...watch the rare blue-necked Somali Ostrich.
lope across the plains and elephants lumbering across your path. This peaceful paradise is a haven for wildlife enthusiasts. Return in the evenings to the banks of the Uaso Nyiro River and your luxury tented camp. SAMBURU DOUM PALM CAMP. (B,L,D Daily)

November 28/29
LAKE NAKURU NATIONAL PARK
Explore the outer Great Rift Valley as you drive to Lake Nakuru National Park – a bird watcher's paradise with over 450 species. See thousands, sometimes hundreds of thousands of flamingos lining the shallow alkaline lake’s shores, along with Marabou Stork and pelican. Scout the magnificent yellow-barked acacia trees for napping leopards. Look for incredible wildlife, such as the endangered Rothschild's giraffe, white and black rhino, lion, buffalo, hippo, waterbuck and baboon. Your rustic cottage is located on the privately-owned Congreve Conservancy, home to abundant plains species, such as eland, zebra, Grant's gazelle, waterbuck and impala. Your camp is named for the Kiswahili word for jackal. Look for all three East African species here: side-striped, silver-backed and golden. MBWEHA CAMP. (B,L,D)

November 30/December 1/2
MAASAI MARA/ NORTHERN SERENGETI
Maasai tending their cattle are part of the classic savannah landscape on your drive through the Great Rift Valley to Kenya’s most famous wildlife reserve, the Maasai Mara. This is the northern part of the Greater Serengeti and an integral part of the great yearly migration of wildlife and bird life. Due to the flat and sparse terrain, its large elephant herds have been made famous by nature photographers and have been studied for over 30 years by noted American naturalist and author, Cynthia Moss, founder of the Amboseli Elephant Research Project.
